Dear Alumni,

The Alumni Association Dental Continuing Education Committee in conjunction with the Faculty of Dentistry NUS are organising a weekend Dental Symposium (AA-FOD Symposium 2015) on October 10th & 11th 2015. This Symposium is organised to help raise funds for Faculty's development. We would like to seek your generous support for this fund raising effort.

Many of the Speakers for this Symposium are from our Dental Alumni with one overseas Speaker Dr Thomas Attin as well as our medical colleague Dr Aaron Pang. There should be something interesting for all participants.

All proceeds from the registration will be donated to the Faculty of Dentistry Development Fund. A tax deduction of 300% of the donation is applicable for donations made in 2015. The Reply/Slip Donation Form is enclosed.

We look forward to seeing you at the Symposium and thank you in advance for your generous support. We also wish to express our appreciation to our exhibitors for their collaborative efforts towards our fund raising cause.

BUILDING A FIRM FOUNDATION FOR ORAL HEALTH IN SINGAPORE & BEYOND

Dental Education at the National University of Singapore (NUS)

The NUS Faculty of Dentistry’s Mission is “To improve oral health through academic excellence, high impact research and quality clinical service”.

From its genesis as a modest department of dentistry within the King Edward VII College of Medicine in 1929, the NUS Faculty of Dentistry has served Singaporeans with distinction in the last eight decades. The Faculty has produced generations of dental surgeons who have contributed to raising the quality of oral healthcare for Singaporeans. Many of our graduates have gone on to distinguish themselves in their professional careers, both locally and overseas.

The dedicated efforts and enterprising spirit of faculty members and students, their commitment and immense contributions, have helped shape the Faculty and established it as an academic institution of international standing. The NUS Faculty of Dentistry is among the top dental schools in Asia-Pacific.

While publicly funded, the support from our donors, corporate partners, alumni and well-wishers provides the financial means to enable the Faculty to innovate and stay competitive.

It is this continuing, generous support that has helped the Faculty to enhance our quality of clinical care, produce dentists of excellent calibre as well as research of significant impact over the years.

Faculty of Dentistry Development plans

Our top priority will be to increase our training capacities to meet the needs of both Singaporeans and the region. There is a need to increase undergraduate and postgraduate enrolment to provide the manpower demands to meet Singapore’s increasing oral health needs. The current Faculty of Dentistry building has facilities to provide mainly for undergraduate teaching. The research and clinical services are located separately in two other buildings. There is no room for any infrastructure expansion.

The Faculty of Dentistry is embarking on the construction of a new Centre for Oral Health that will integrate clinical care, oral health education and research under one roof. The new centre is targeted to be ready in 2019.

The Centre for Oral Health will

- increase the Faculty’s training capacity to undergraduate dental students, specialist Masters residents, graduate researchers by year 2020. The centre will also train oral health therapists;
- improve facilities for teaching;
- increase clinical care, with emphasis on special needs care such as geriatric dentistry and hospital dentistry
- enhance ability to grow research in the areas of oral systemic links, regenerative biology and tissue engineering, biomaterials and public health.

The Centre for Oral Health will have a planned gross floor area of 23,000 sqm. The new building will incorporate state-of-art education technology classrooms, simulation labs and clinical training facilities. In addition, there will be clinical facilities for services and research laboratories.

In addition to government funding, the Faculty intends to raise $50 million for the Centre for Oral Health. This will enable us to deliver dental education which can be benchmarked against the best globally.
