

Curriculum Vitae

Name: Philip PRESHAW

Position: Professor of Periodontology, National University of Singapore

Academic/Professional Qualifications:

- BDS (1991) Newcastle University, UK
- FDS RCSEd (1995) Fellowship in Dental Surgery, Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh
- PhD (1997) Doctor of Philosophy, Newcastle University
- PG Certificate in Learning and Teaching in Higher Education (2001), Newcastle University
- FHEA (2002) Fellow of the Higher Education Academy, UK
- FDS (Rest Dent) RCSEd (2004) Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh
- CCST (2005) Certificate of Completion of Specialist Training, GDC, UK

Awards/Honours:

- Dean's Medal awarded for FDS RCSEd examination (1995)
- National Institute of Health Research (NIHR) National Clinician Scientist (2004-2009)
- IADR Anthony Rizzo Periodontal Research Award (2007)
- IADR Distinguished Scientist Award (Young Investigator Award) (2008)
- King James IV Professorship (Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh) (2010)
- Charles Tomes Medal (Royal College of Surgeons of England) (2016)

Teaching Interests: Periodontology: aetiology, diagnosis, pathogenesis, management

Research Interests: Periodontitis pathogenesis, inflammation, risk factors management, links between periodontitis and systemic diseases such as diabetes, identification of biomarkers for periodontal disease pathogenesis.

Grant Income: Total research funding to date: £4,834,934 (as PI: £3,551,702)

Publications to date:	Papers:	132
	Abstracts:	107
	Books:	3
	Book chapters:	12
	h-index (Scopus):	37