Synopsis

- Despite significant advances in implantology, inadequate pre-surgical radiographic assessment & treatment planning remain among the leading contributors to implant-related complications and implant failure
- This half-day programme, led by Associate Professor Alvin Yeo and Dr Lim Li Zhen will provide a comprehensive overview of the use of 2D & 3D imaging in implant treatment planning.
- Practical use of a CBCT software for identification of anatomic landmarks will be demonstrated with relevant case scenarios

Organised

Learning Objectives

- Understand the guidelines on the use of 2D and CBCT imaging in implant dentistry
- Recognise the impact of field of view, voxel size and other scan parameters on patient dose and image quality on CBCTs
- Identify critical anatomic landmarks and jaw pathology relevant to implant placement, including anatomical variations
- Determine site-specific protocols for evaluating the anatomic and radiographic considerations essential to safe and predictable implant treatment planning across in both the maxilla & mandible

Programme

Trainer

Dr Lim Li Zhen

Dr Lim Li Zhen is Senior Lecturer at the Faculty of Dentistry, National University of Singapore (NUS), and a Consultant at the National University Centre for Oral Health, Singapore (NUCOHS). She received her Bachelor of Dental Surgery degree from NUS in 2010, where she was the recipient of multiple academic awards. In 2014, she received the NUS-Overseas Graduate Scholarship to pursue a Master of Science degree in Oral and Maxillofacial Radiology (OMR) at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Upon graduating in 2017, she was the first Singaporean to complete a full-time 3-year residency programme in OMR. She received her board certification from the American Board of Oral and Maxillofacial Radiology in 2018.

She teaches modules in oral radiography and radiology to undergraduate and postgraduate dental students. Her research interests include evaluating the diagnostic impact and efficacy of imaging, and the use of technology-enhanced learning in dental education.

Trainer

Associate Professor
Alvin Yeo

A/Prof Alvin Yeo is currently working as an Associate Professor and Senior Consultant at the National University of Singapore (NUS) and the National University Centre of Oral Health Singapore (NUCOHS), respectively. He assumes the position of Director of the Postgraduate Residency Programme in the Department of Periodontics at the National University of Singapore. In addition, he was recently appointed as the Assistant Dean for the Centre for Advanced Dental Education (CADE) at NUS Faculty of Dentistry.

A/Prof Yeo graduated in Periodontics at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, USA in 2003 with a Certificate in Periodontics and a Masters of Science (MSc) degree in Oral Biology. He received his Bachelor of Dental Surgery (BDS) degree from the NUS in 1997. He was conferred Fellow in the Academy of Medicine, Singapore (FAMS) in 2007. He was awarded a Doctorate of Philosophy (PhD) from the University of Groningen, Netherlands after successfully defending his PhD thesis in March 2010.

A/Prof Yeo holds several positions in organisations and committees locally and internationally. He was recently appointed as a member of the Dental Specialist Accreditation Board (DSAB) from April 2026, after completing a 12-year tenure (2014–2026) on the Dental Specialist Accreditation Council (DSAC) in Periodontics, contributing to exit assessments for specialist accreditation.

He has been extremely active and is part of the Founding member and the Leadership Team of the ITI South-East Asia (SEA) Section formed in 2011. He assumed the role of ITI SEA Section Education Delegate from 2011-2015 and was the past-Chairperson of the ITI SEA Section from 2016-2019. He sits on the Editorial Advisory Board of the “Journal of Periodontology” and is also a member of the Editorial Board of the “ITI Forum Implantologicum” Journal.
